

Why Strings and Locality Are a Lot Like Smartphones

Terry Bollinger

2022-07-01.06:25 EDT Fri

https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=bHKbIhSWpl4&lc=Ugzgl1LL-o3RoP_zEpZ4AaABAq

Comment on YouTube World Science Festival post:

School's Out, but Science Never Stops: Live Discussion with Brian Greene

<https://youtu.be/bHKbIhSWpl4>

Imagine a smartphone. Not hard, is it? Such devices seem simple to us, and that's the problem. Our survival-focused brains favor the simple-but-not outcomes of the classical world, whether it's locality or tiny vibrating strings that presume most of physics in their "abstract" equations.

Terry Bollinger CC BY 4.0

2022-07-01.06.25 Fri

<https://sarxiv.org/apa.2022-07-01.0625.pdf>